You now have the opportunity to electronically receive BVA Federal Credit Union online statements and legal and regulatory notices ("important notices") which may have been included with your paper statements. If you consent, you will not receive BVA Federal Credit Union statements and important notices in paper form. Important notices may include notices regarding our privacy policies, changes in the member agreement, member associated benefit changes and any court related legal and regulatory notices. If, for whatever reason, we cannot provide information in an electronic manner, at our option, we may provide any or all of such information to you by mail or other lawfully permitted manner. Upon request, you may still obtain a copy of your BVA Federal Credit Union statement. A copy fee will apply for any statement copies requested beyond the most recent statement period.

In order to access the electronic statements, you must be signed up through the credit union on-line banking site. You may sign up for on-line credit union services by contacting BVA Federal Credit Union.

You may withdraw your consent to the electronic receipt of your BVA Federal Credit Union statement and accompanying important notices at any time by providing a signed written request to the credit union.
